I. The birth of a luxury Palace

At the dawn of the 20th century, Monegasque architect Jean Marquet built an upscale and luxurious hotel, a neoclassical edifice amongst orange and olive trees dotting Monte-Carlo, facing the Mediterranean Sea.

1. An unparalleled Belle Époque style

Eminent designers and artists engraved in stone and printed the hotel's style. The dining room, named Belle Époque, is one of Hôtel Hermitage Monte-Carlo ornaments. Never outdated, it embodies the character and opulence of the establishment. The ceiling is the work of artist Gabriel Ferrier, Prix de Rome and 1889 Universal Exposition Gold Medallist who was inspired by François Boucher and Jean-Honoré Fragonard's fresco, « Grâces Florentines ». In the 1970's, André Levasseur undertakes the room's restoration, highlighting the pink marble columns, reminiscent of the Grand Trianon, framing the crystal chandeliers.

Another hotel's wonders: the Jardin d'Hiver (Winter Garden). It owes its prestige to the glass conservatory created and erected by disciples of the undisputed master of metal architecture, Gustave Eiffel. Its umbrella-shaped structure will be emphasised in the 1970's with the addition of pastel tones, gildings and new lighting. The setting and serenity of the area are as many assets that make Hôtel Hermitage Monte-Carlo a synonym of excellence, "art de vivre" and "savoir-vivre" in Monte-Carlo.

Timeless elegant, lasting memories

In 1928, the hotel becomes one of Monte-Carlo Société des Bains de Mer's properties. The purchase launches further remodelling and construction, amongst which the Costa wing. Hôtel Hermitage Monte-Carlo is entirely renovated, however maintaining its muted and intimate soul, a subtle blend of « Belle Époque » prestige and elegance.

Respecting its rich and unsurpassed heritage, Hôtel Hermitage Monte-Carlo gets modernised and begins large-scale renovation phases, to meet the growing expectations of a demanding clientele. During the 1970's, major restoration brings new life to the Salle Belle Époque and the glass roof of the Winter Garden. The two hallmarks of the House are restored to their former glory.

2. Renovation at the dimensions of a Palace

In the 2000's, a wind of modernisation blows through Hôtel Hermitage Monte-Carlo: over 90% of the establishment will indeed be renovated between 2003 and 2011. All is meticulously designed to achieve a harmonious marriage between classic authenticity and technology. Thus, one rediscovers the scents of yesteryear gardens with Jean Mus' stroke of genius, the landscape designer, when entrusted with Hôtel Hermitage gardens. Then, architect and interior designer Pierre-Yves Rochon, assisted by Monte-Carlo Société des Bains de Mer Studies Department, entirely redesigns the lobby, oversees room development in a classic style refined with contemporary flair: Louis XVI Bergère and 1900 lamps are placed alongside mahogany, cherry wood and other ivory patina chests. While architect Joseph Lori leads the refurbishments to match the original Belle Époque style, mirroring the facade of the Prince and Beaumarchais wings, the hotel strengthens its position as a Palace and is raised by two storeys.

From 2004 to 2007, the hotel's Excelsior wing is renovated with the same stringent requirements as the preceding renovations. Beside the upgrade to compliance standards following an environmental charter established by Monte-Carlo Société des Bains de Mer, 54 rooms are re-decorated in a neo-classical style in the Prince and Beaumarchais wings, while their comfort is optimised. The prestigious Excelsior salon is entirely redecorated, excluding its Art Nouveau inspired ceilings. By the time the Excelsior wing is reopened in May 2007, nine suites in the Midi wing have been expanded with the addition of private terraces ranging from 21 to 80 sq.m.

Finally, the renovation program started in 2002 ends with the completion of the Costa and Midi wings, now housing a 400-seat conference room, entirely dug out from bedrock.
